

OLD COMMONWEALTH

HARRISONBURG, VA.

THURSDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 4, 1880.

THE ATTEMPT OF MAYONE.

Democrats of Central District, you saw on Tuesday, and the figures that we print to-day show the boasted strength of the 7th of July ticket. Every one who came here to speak during the canvass in its behalf was loudly cheered by a promiscuous crowd, and the impression sought to be made that their boasted cry, "We are the people," was really true. This paper in reference to this party last week said: "We aver in all sincerity and candor that the man who votes the Mahone (7th-of-July) ticket on the 2d of November, votes for and with the Republican party. It is the Republican party now. Nothing more—nothing less." Were ever words more prophetic? Were ever prophecies more clearly fulfilled? The mandarin bellowers who shouted for the abomination called the 7th-of-July ticket, (conceived by Mahone and a number of his crew for no higher purpose than to deceive a confiding people who repose confidence in his political sagacity and intelligence, which he never deserved), were sold like sheep by Mahone and traded to the Republican party. If Mahone had been as honest as his followers claimed for him he would not have spread the statement that his ticket would carry 80,000 votes in Virginia, when 30,000 will probably be found to be a full estimate. He meant to break down the Democracy of the State and sell the advantages to the Republicans. Tuesday made it clear here. The 7th-of-Julyers and Republicans worked hand-in-glove together, and the 7th-of-Julyers succeeded in polling only 142 votes, whilst the Republicans carried this precinct, for the first time in the history of the party. Who helped them to the victory? Not the Democrats, surely. That sin cannot be laid at our door. It was the work of the 7th-of-Julyers.

If the Democracy of Virginia are capable of learning anything, this combination of Mahone, Fulkerson, Wise, Paul, etc., will teach them a lesson that will be of good use in the future. We believe they will learn, for surely Virginians have not forgotten Radical rule in all of the States South during and for a time subsequent to the period of reconstruction. When they do forget, as many seem to have done this year, there will be a shock of awakening which will surely serve to keep their eyes open for the remainder of this century at least, for in Radical success there will be danger of a new reconstruction, which will cause groans that would be echoed from household to household in all this Southern land. Radicalism is the same malignant political demon it has heretofore shown itself to be, and so will continue, and the wisdom of the idolaters of the Ganges who cast their offspring under the car of Juggernaut is parallel with that of him who casts his vote with this political combination, in hope of peace and salvation for his country.

Democrats, you have been grossly deceived, yet you possibly save your State. Many honest Democrats voted with the 7th-of-July combination, believing it to be the strongest ticket, as was so persistently proclaimed by its leaders, in whom they had confidence. See to it that you be not deceived again by the same agents. We give it as our belief that the deception upon the part of the leaders was intentional and for a purpose. How far their purpose was successful we do not know, but if defeated in votes, yet there are other considerations and results, and their accomplishment may amount to a victory in spoils to the leaders, because disastrous returns of the votes may appear to the rank and file. To the future must we look for the real outcome of Tuesday's battle in Virginia.

John H. Wartmann, Esq., may now relate that he knew better who were the people than those who sought to impress upon him in the language of the 7th-of-Julyers, "we are the people." He refused to sink his Democracy at the bidding of Mr. James Hardin, and lost his place as editor of the Charlottesville Advocate. As a readjuster he stands where he stood before, and as a Democrat has been constant. The mudslingers who sought to injure him here, by calling him a "traitor," etc., may now seek their ends, for he stands forth a man and can defy them.

THE YORKTOWN CENTINEL.—Gov. Holliday, of Va., in a letter to Capt. John Milledge, the Georgia commissioner for the Yorktown centennial, informs him that there will be a meeting of the commissioners in Washington on the 10th of December at which the committee of the two houses of Congress will be present, to agree upon a programme for the proposed celebration.

CURED OF DRINKING.—A young friend of mine was cured of an insatiable thirst for liquor, which he had contracted from the use of the "Pop Bitters." He was entirely cured by the use of Pop Bitters. It attacked all that burning thirst; took away the appetite for liquor; made his nerves steady, and he has remained a sober and steady man for more than two years, and has no desire to return to his cups; I know of a number of others that have been cured of drinking by it.—From a leading R. R. Official, Chicago, Ill.—(Times).

DEFEATED.

GARFIELD ELECTED.

The returns of the election for President and Vice-President of the United States show the defeat of Gen. Hancock by a most decided majority of the electoral college. From all sides come tidings of defeat to the Democracy of the Union. The Republicans have succeeded in creating "a solid North against a solid South." If it is their will and they have the numerical strength we must submit to what we cannot prevent. The people of the South, when the smoke of the battle has cleared, will have time to consider the measures necessary for building herself into a power that will compel a recognition of the fact that it is a part of the Union. At present we are not inclined to offer even a suggestion. We are depressed by so inglorious a defeat, and to such an extent, that we do not care to inquire into the cause.

New York, and every other Northern State has been lost to the Democracy under the leadership of a great Federal General, the peer if not the best the North has yet produced in military genius, whose patriotism has not nor cannot be questioned, and whose ability in State-craft has shown him no ordinary man. Of course the reasons for his defeat will appear in time, and when they are laid bare it will be found that the means used were not such as will likely inspire renewed hope for liberty and union in the hearts of the American people.

New Jersey alone, of all the Northern States may be left out, but even this is doubtful. Not one white spot in all the black belt of Northern States. This is a terrible defeat, and we fear we may not see anything better for years to come. Whilst we are hopeful we are far from cheerful as we look over the field.

THE STATE.

The returns from all parts of the State indicate clearly that Virginia casts her vote for Gen. Hancock on the regular 19th of May Democratic ticket. The schism created by Mahone did not work, and we are happy to record the failure of the pitiful stroke of the "masterly strategist," which developed itself as a contemptible specimen of purity and political chicanery. Instead of 80,000 votes as he boastfully claimed for his ticket, the returns bring him but a mere handful. He attempted to destroy the Democracy of the State, and came near enough to make many honest Democrats tremble. Originally for Grant, his ticket best served the interest of Garfield and the Republican party as a pseudo-Democratic ticket. The close embrace of the partisans of Mahone with the Republicans in this contest clearly shows how well the two parties understood each other. The spectacle of Gen. Mahone in Philadelphia, with Randall, Hewitt and Fryer, demanding the surrender of the whole 19th of May ticket, with all the Democratic hosts of Virginia, as his only terms of compromise, in view of the fact which he surely knew, if he knew anything, that it was sure to be behind even the Republican ticket, is just one of those ludicrous acts "to make angels weep."

Thanks to the honest Democracy of the State, Virginia escaped the snare so adroitly laid. She is not yet compelled to kneel at the feet of Radicalism, and if a couple of Congressmen should be the gain to Mahone, the high personal respect he has lost will be poor recompense.

CONGRESSIONAL.

The contest for Congressmen in Virginia has been a hot contest running through a canvass of months. In some of the Districts the fight was very bitter.

There is so much difficulty in getting accurate returns that in this, the 7th District, we are unable to tell whether Allen, dem., or Paul, 7th-of-Julyer, is elected. It will be necessary to have the official vote of the counties to determine the result, so close is the vote.

In the Richmond District Geo. D. Wise, democrat, is elected over Jno. S. Wise, Mahoneite.

John S. Barbour, democrat, is elected by a large majority in the Alexandria district, over Gen. James H. Williams, 7th-of-Julyer, and Major Bayly, republican.

Hon. J. Ran. Tucker, democrat, is re-elected in the Rockbridge district, over Frazier, 7th-of-Julyer.

Hon. John Goode is probably defeated by Dezerodre, republican, in the Norfolk district.

Hon. Joseph Jorgensen, republican, is re-elected in the Petersburg district. We have no advice from the Abingdon district, but presume that Fulkerson, 7th-of-Julyer, is elected.

We hope Cabell is elected over Stovall in the 5th district, and the returns indicate that result.

VIRGINIA ROCKINGHAM CO.—OFFICIAL.

THE VOTE OF WEST VIRGINIA.—Full returns from West Virginia show that Jackson, democrat, for Governor, has a majority over Sturgis, republican, of 16,267 votes—an increase of more than 3,000 over any other election.

Trouble in Europe, Property Here.

Eleven million francs in French gold reached this city by the steamer Wiesland on Tuesday, which also brought a goodly amount in German coin. This is said to be the largest amount ever brought in one steamer, but sums not greatly below this are arriving every week by steamers of every line. Europe must send us these cargoes of precious metals to pay for the grain she is compelled to buy from us, since the manufactured commodities we take from her cannot balance the account. Harvests in Europe continue to fall far below the needs of the people, and this year not only England, France, Belgium and Germany must buy from us, but even Russia which ordinarily supplies a great part of the deficiency in the other European countries. But our own surplus is so great that the price ought not to go beyond a fair rate here, even while we supply all the foreign demand. Our prosperity is in remarkable contrast with their distress; and the very elements themselves, present the same strangely contrasted oppositions on the two sides of the Atlantic. With the exception of a local drought we have enjoyed on our side an autumn of unusual beauty and tranquility—a season of pleasant days and glorious nights that could not be surpassed in any climate of the known world; while beyond the sea snow and ice, sleet and cold, and rain and wind have seemed to vie with one another in the tortures they could inflict and the ruin they could cause.

In the world of human events all is peaceful here, for the normal activities of a political canvass are scarcely excepted to be noted; while in Europe revolt and war and revolution are harassing all the nations with actual evils or with the anxious anticipation of evils impending. In Ireland they seem to be on the verge of a social war; in France attempted religious repression fills the minds of men of either side with fury; social revolt smolders in Germany; around the difficult knot of the Eastern question all the Powers are at swords' points with a common foe, or with one another, while England's troubles in Africa and Asia are once more thorns in her side. All is turmoil there and stormy uncertainty; here all is tranquility and prosperity. Let us be thankful that we are three thousand miles away from Europe, and have now in the vigor of our youth, actually settled for ourselves most of the problems of popular rights that now trouble those far away nations.—N. Y. Herald.

EQUAL TO A DIME NOVEL.—George Wheeler was in love with his wife's wife. Della Tilson, the sister, was made very unhappy by the complication, and she returned to her passion, and also had a deep regard for his wife. At length she was found dead in the house. She had been choked to death by George. His cool account of the murder was as follows: "She asked me to cut her throat. I told her that I could not bear to see her blood, but I told her that I could choke her. She said, 'Very well,' and sat in my lap, when I placed one hand on her mouth and with the other grasped her throat, and she, throwing her head back on my shoulder, died like a child. She struggled but little. At first she looked into my eyes, and I, kissing them, told her to close them, which she did, and thus she passed away."

WICKED FOR CLERGYMEN.—Rev. Washington, D. C., writes: "I believe it to be all wrong and even wicked for clergymen to accept of money from laymen in giving testimonials to quack doctors or vile stuffs called medicines, but when a really meritorious article made of valuable remedies known to all, that all physicians use and trust in daily, we should freely commend it. I therefore cheerfully and heartily commend Pop Bitters for the good they have done and my friends, and I believe I will not be without them."—[New York Baptist Weekly.]

A young man named Logan, of Northumberland county, Pa., has been charged for the murder of his aged father, whom the court had ordered him to support. The body of the old man was found with the skull crushed as if with a club.

We had arranged for dispatches from Washington and the North, but the news was so bad, perhaps, that our friends preferred to keep the sad tidings of defeat to themselves. Whichever way we look, North and West there is but one continuous black belt of Republican States, without a single bright spot to illumine the sable sea, with perhaps the single exception of New Jersey.

The election in this county, as far as we can learn, passed off quietly and without disturbance of any kind. The vote polled was pretty large, yet a good many remained away from the polls. The republicans showed very efficient organization and brought out their full strength.

The letter from our friend at Dovestille reached us too late this issue. We will give it attention in our next. Thanks.

SUICIDE AT NORFOLK.—On last Saturday, Charles S. Forrest, son of the late William S. Forrest, the well-known historian, walked into a grocery store and seizing an immense cheese knife cut his throat from ear to ear. He was laboring under a delirium from a protracted spree. After being taken to the station-house he was removed by the surgeon to St. Vincent's Hospital, and will in all probability die.

HENRY VAN NORTWICK, of Toledo, Ohio, a friend of the author, upon the subject of "Only Lung Pad," and obtained immediate relief from a racking cough. I know the Pad helped me.—[See Adv.]
